About Tea Point

Tea Points are often referred to as being a 'social hub' or focal point of the office. Not only are they practical in providing employees with a modern and well-equipped self-service kitchen for making hot drinks and snacks, but this feature is also becoming the 'common room' of the workplace.

Tea Points create opportunities for unstructured collaboration, a chance for employees to connect over a cuppa, and can be designed to fit seamlessly into any workplace environment.

No two workplaces are the same, and this goes for Tea Points aswell. We can therefore discuss with you your workplace requirements, and custom make your unit to include a range of features and functions to ensure you get a product that not only works for you but enhances your workplace.

As a proud British manufacturer, we are also able to make your Tea Point using a choice of materials, including our alternative eco-friendly range which uses the best and most eco-conscious materials available. We can also make your unit bespoke to fit into any space, no matter how big, small, or obscure.

We understand that as well as being functional, it's important to make your Tea Point look awesome too!

Choose from an almost endless array of finishes and textures to get the look you want, or even overlay vinyl images to create a unique visual affect within your office environment.
